A comely crowd of eager hounds littered the carpark at Mambal Pool chomping at the bit but the start was not obvious so most waited till the correct start time. 4:30 came and Tartar set us off up steps to the South East. We don't usually go that way and a few were caught out. A check back early on caused a little confusion but we were soon back on the scent (must be a smelly bastard at the front). We headed South a long way towards the bamboo structures of the Green School then to the West down and across the river over a bamboo bridge.

Up the other side and on through mixed country and down to a large subak. The short went off to the North while the long turned South, across a dam and up onto open rice fields.

We headed West and then North a long way up through open fields eventually turning back to the East. We dropped down to cross the subak again and headed South eventually turning East and up to the site.

It was a good run and far more interesting than the usual Mambal Pool circuit. There were plenty of well set check backs but not much susu for the perverts to get their rock off.

The circle gathered with Tartar holding court, a bit rowdy but the noisy bastards were soon brought into line. We welcomed back returners: Cosmos, Leeky Dick, Little Cat, Olala, Ololo, Honoka, Monica Herre and Mo mo.

Visitors today were: Jan Carlo, Quattro, Andrew Torrie, Chris Gracey, Taylor McDonald and Thankding Sari

Virgins who lost their hash hymens were: Godfrey Eggerzauer, Anja Van Eykeren, Joris Eykeren, Hiroko, Miki, Lobre Schaats and Henry Carr.

Achievers today were Old Goat, with an amazing 750 runs (our third highest run count), Running Stool (350) and Mudflaps (50 runs)

The Welsh were in good form today. It is a little known fact that Old Goat is in fact a Welshman. He was given the name Old Goat when they mistakenly translated his genetically disturbed desire for young kampling into "you dirty old goat" instead of "you sheep shagger". Anyway today Old Goat was in his element with Woodeneye leading celebrations assisted by fellow sheep shaggers Colonel Bloodknock and Leeky Dick. Mr Eye declared that women are like clouds and Leeky Dick confided with us that when he looks in the mirror he gets a hard on.

We carried on singing and joking into the darkness. A good run, a good crowd, a good day.

On on
