Taman Mumbul is a nice spot for a run. Large trees and a lake in a picturesque setting it is also situated in very good running territory. The hounds milled around waiting for the off like a load of ewes waiting for a ram. At 4:30 we were off up the hill to the East and off to the South. From there on direction was soon lost. A cloudy day there was no sun to guide us and the run twisted and turned through an ever changing mix of country. We ran through wooded areas, fields of crops and every now and then we crossed roads. We headed South then to the West, South again and then Turned East. The short went off to the North while the long headed further East. We turned North and then West eventually coming to a ravine and a slippery bridge across to a huge tree which had to be climbed above a deep drop.

Visiting hasher Moby Dick was loitering before the tree when we got there insisting that he couldn't get across and how could he get around. You can't we said all easily pushing past him, crossing the slippery bridge and climbing the tree. Even St Tits didn't shit himself crossing over. Eventually Moby Dick stopped spouting and bleating and had a go. One hasher who had held back to help Mr Dick was left behind grumbling about the ungrateful visitor.

We headed up to a road and came across a lost soul mumbling that he had come across an "on in" sign so he thought he should head off up the road which he did. It was Dunno the silly buggar, wittering about how he had thought he should go that way.

We headed South and back to the site.

Then the sausages began, excellent.

Eventually the stand in hash master called the hounds to order and the meeting began.

Returners today were: Leap Frog, and the Frog Family, Prawn Star, Jarot.

Visiting Hashers Moby Dick and Dunno were given special attention for their sins - "weakness in the face of tree climbing" and "thinking on the run".

Visitors: Andrew Torrie, Chris Gracie, Michael Zoller, Rega, Daya, Tegul, Joel, Chieko, Scumas, Widubi, Graz and Stewie.

Virgins: Martina, Fred Hagidon, Ingrid Petshkic, David, Scarlet, Deri and Graz.

Achievers: Adeje (150 runs) and Crush Station (50 runs)

Then of course it was time to celebrate German Demolition Day, the day the wall came down and reunified the square headed bastards. We had lots of Germans today, they built a wall, then they knocked it down, then they had an election, Angela Merkel won and sat on the ice along with Hans and Fritz.

It was Organ Grinder's 16th birthday today so we all had birthday cake.

Thank you to our sponsors German Shepherd, Bird Balls, Spook and Organ Grinder for putting on the food German snags (yum) and German potato salad (yum yum).
