In Britain we celebrate this as Thanksgiving Day, the day we got rid of that “troublesome colony”. In America it is the day they put their hands on their hearts and cry into their beer following an age old feeling of deep regret at having left Old Blighty in the first place.

Last year's Independence Day run was a cracker and so the hares had a big act to follow but the same team of hares did a great job. It was a bit spooky having our 911 run on American Independence Day but still this was a new site and virgin running country with an enthusiastic group of villagers all come to see the crazy hashers frolicking like silly buggars in the rice fields.

Floral Shit was back from Aussie and no sooner had he arrived that he was into the spirit of the day contributing a technicolour yawn to celebrate America's special Day. Our Grand Master Jorok was also in fine form sporting a very healthy dose of flu for this special day of days.

Having wrestled our way through the traffic jams caused by little kids with f...ing big kites and arrived at the last minute we were off frolicking West and dropping immediately into a valley. Short runners were everywhere blocking the way, then it was across a bridge and up the other side. At the top we turned West again. It was all a blur really we headed South then East and back to the North returning to the village from the East. Most of the run was through green rice fields and in some places the bunds were narrow but the weather was dry so little damage was done. There was certainly enough variation to make this a very enjoyable run.

Back at the site it was a frenzy with people lining up for tee shirts and hot dogs. As expected there were plenty of people there and the 130 tee shirts ran out. Never mind, a good effort from the hares and the sponsors.

Made Tartar called the circle to order and did the official business.

Returners: Bemo, Blind Dog, Elephant Legs, Floral Shit, Kopicina, Monk, Sendel Plonk, Zippy, Honoka, Joris, Lan, Patty Bolin, Vincent Cilli, Yanuar.

Visitors: Awis, Agus Wiyanto, Clinton Strong, Stephanie Beamont, Sed Youn, Lily Yani, Curt Schwarz, Anita Dewi, Peter Esposito, Niluh Esposito, Gerhardt, Uni, Becky, Ayu Norma, Angie Bryce, Freddi, Steve Denning.

Virgins: John Barbera, Harry McCall, Laura Brannigan, Gove Depuy, Chris Gracey, Andrew Torrie.

The Yanks were all brought into the circle and we were all punished with an extraordinary rendition (did I say “extraordinary rendition”?) of the “Star Mangled Spanner” in which Joe, as usual, lost his voice.

Wankervitch announced that he was “indignated” at the proceedings.

Woodeneye was once again on form and, together with Bios the Bucket Boy, welcomed some poor fool to the joys of “ice sitting with douche”

All in all a very good day and a credit to our American friends who seem to be smiling a lot more since they got a new president.

Thank you hares, thank you sponsors and thank you Jorok.

On on
