Bali Hash House Harriers 2
13th December 2008 - Run 882 – Bukit Jati
Hare – Giraffe assisted by Oxzy, Cockroach and Bayu.

Bukit Jati is has been a well run area in recent years but this run was different Still there was a good roll up of well seasoned hashers.

The hounds left the site to the North West. We quickly came to a check back and some smartarsed bastards lead us onto the “on in” paper for the short run. After half a mile we knew we were wrong, the short cutters carried on the wrong way around the short while the real hashers (ha ha) turned back and eventually found the paper.

After the usual rummaging around rubbish tips and very slippery slopes we passed through a village and broke into a valley many had not visited before. Through mixed country and down to cross a stream. Fanny Wank had to get his feet wet poor sod. Up the other side and onto paddy fields, up a road then off and into another valley. We lost all sense of direction, the country was stunning and it was only towards the end of the run that the familiar areas of Bukit Jati could be recognised.

Made Tartar introduced our hares for the day and asked for some feedback. The lying bastards said it was a very good run although people hadn't seen the susu (some of us saw the susu!).

Welcome back to Gordon Blue, Hole in One, and a load of other people who have nothing better to do with their lives. Visiting hasher was Wild Wolf a Grand Master from the Philippines who got several down downs mostly notably by breaking rule 4 (no puffers) and getting up close and personal with Made Tartar (Puffer Masters together?)

As the RA got into his stride the heavens opened and drops of rain the size of dinner plates fell from the darkening sky. It was an omen, the RA has not been keeping up his relations with the higher powers, what good is an RA that gets rained on. Come to think of it we got rained on last week as well!

Out came the umbrellas and clutches of hashers sheltered under what umbrellas could be found or lurked in the back of cars. What a piss weak bunch of bloody floozies!

Bit then the rain eased and the pack gathered around the barrel. It got pitch dark and no one wanted to go home! Even the warm confines of a comfortable pub doesn't compare with standing in the rain getting pissed with your mates now does it?

Another great day in Paradise.
